

Students to Start-ups

Entrepreneurial Skills Training Workshop Series

Who this workshop is for:

UC Irvine students and technologists actively starting or planning to start new businesses.

What you will learn:

Are bank loans or equity investors the best answer to your company's start-up needs? How does a banker or investor look at your business? What other capital sources are available? Let us show you the best ways to approach commercial lenders and find additional investment opportunities. We will show you how successful start-up businesses are really funded.

About Jim Chamberlain:

For ten years Jim was co-owner, director, and CFO of Consolidated Reprographics, an Orange County leading reprographics company. Jim also held financial positions with Dexter, General Dynamics and Statek Corporation, as well as an environmental start-up. He also helped manage a privately held high technology company awarded as one of the top 50 fastest growing private companies in Orange County. During his career, Jim has had extensive experience in merger and acquisition activity as both buyer and seller. He has prepared business plans, sold and purchased businesses and has helped entrepreneurs improve their cash flow. Management Accounting is his specialty. Jim has an MBA and is a CMA (Certified Management Accountant). He is also a past president and director of the Certified Management Accounting Society of Southern California.
